Ask the Expert

Q: Besides sunscreen, are there any supplements that can help support healthy skin during the summer months?

A: While sunscreen is an important part of sun safety, healthy skin starts from the inside out. Staying hydrated is especially important during hot summer months. Along with drinking water, electrolytes can help replace minerals lost through sweat, support hydration, and help maintain normal muscle and nerve function. Summer is the perfect season for colorful fruits and vegetables that provide antioxidants supporting your body's natural response to sun and environmental stress. Supplements used to support skin health include vitamin C, D, and E, omega-3 fatty acids, and collagen peptides. Pair these habits with sunscreen, protective clothing, hats, and shade to help keep your skin healthy all summer long!
